FULL ACCORD AT DUBLIN PARLEY

De Valera Agrees To Meet Lloyd George After Conference

WILL DEFER REPLY

General Smuts To Discuss Situation With Sinn Fein Leaders—15,000 Irish Sympathisers Parade.

Dublin, July 5.—Eamon de Valera, so called President of the Irish Republic, held a conference today at the Dublin Mansion House with four representatives of Ulster, which may prove to be epochal in Irish history.

At the close of the conference it was reported that complete accord was reached by the Ulster and Sinn Fein leaders and that De Valera will meet Premier Lloyd George in the discussion the latter requested to solve the Irish difficulties.

This conference, however, probably will not be held until after De Valera has first consulted with Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and the Sinn Fein leader will defer his reply to Lloyd George's invitation until final acceptance of his views is certain. Today, it appears, good good work was done for the ideal of peace in Ireland.

An official report of the morning's conference, issued yesterday afternoon, stated only that Lloyd George's invitation to a peace parley had been discussed and certain agreements had been reached, after which the conference adjourned until Friday.

The Mansion House, in which the representatives of North and South Ireland met, was draped with the Stars and Stripes, in accordance with the Sinn Fein proclamation directing that official honors be paid the American flag throughout Ireland on Independence Day.

There was a lull in the guerilla warfare which has brought a reign of terror throughout Ireland, and Dublin enjoyed unusual peace. The activities of the Crown forces and the Republican army both had been suspended by tacit agreement and British troops were not in evidence around the Mansion House, where metropolitan police kept order. The crowd was not large, considering the fact that this was De Valera's first public appearance since his return from America.

The Sinn Fein leader showed little trace of his months as a fugitive as he arrived and was enthusiastically cheered as his taxicab drew up at the Mansion House. His only colleague in the conference was Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein movement. The four Unionist members of the conference were Earl Middleton, Sir Maurice Dockrell, Sir Robert Woods and Arthur Jameson. Among them they represented the land owning class, the university and the commercial interests of Northern Ireland.

So paradoxical is the Irish situation now that conservative gentlemen listened in patience while the crowd, plentifully sprinkled with tiny American flags, sang the "Soldiers Song," as a rebel air. It had not been sung openly in Dublin for a year.

London, July 5.—Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, Premier of the Union of South Africa, will arrive in Dublin today, where he will be met by Eamonn de Valera and other Irish leaders.

New York, July 5.—Fifteen thousand Irish sympathizers, each carrying an American flag, paraded Fifth Avenue today in a demonstration for recognition of the "Irish Republic." Many of them were women and children. There also was a good sprinkling of former service men in uniform. Only American flags were carried.

Only one placard was in the procession—that of John Bull holding a whip over the manacled figure of a woman, typifying Ireland, pleading for justice. John Bul was represented as saying, "I am justice."

The marchers were reviewed by Mayor Hylan and disbanded at the Mall in Central Park, wehre addresses were made by former Governor Martin H. Glynn and Congressman Thomas J. Ryan.

THE CHAUTAUQUA NEXT MONDAY

Practically only four week days remain when season tickets may be secured for the Alexandria Chautauqua. By the terms of the contract, these tickets may be disposed of only until the opening date of the season; after that time single admission tickets will be required for all who desire to attend the entertainments and lectures. Monday, July 11, will soon be here. Don't put off too long securing your season ticket—it saves you money; also assures the guarantors of your interest and cooperation. If you don't meet a guarantor with tickets in his hand, drop in at the Y. M. C. A., office at the Westminster Building, where you will find some. Show your neighbor the splendid program and plan to bring him along.

The next meeting of Guarantors will be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 this Thursday evening. It is expected that Mr. W. A. Sawyers, Alexandria's Chautauqua Superintendent for this season, will be in town by this time and will meet with the Guarantors on Thursday evening.

Local Oarsmen, However, Made Good Showing at People's Regatta

The Old Dominion Boat Club entered two boats in the People's Regatta in Philadelphia yesterday. Harry Howard and Lionel Beeton, who manned the double took third place in their race, while Louis Hoy, Jack Pohl, Allen Roberts and Marshall Shuman, who rowed the quad finished in fourth place. It is said that the races were made in less time than in any previous People's Regatta. The crews from Alexandria made an excellent showing in both races, coming in a head of some fine crews.

Crews of the West Philadelphia Club admitted that they were surprised in themselves. This club took both races in which the Alexandria Club was entered. The Washington Canoe Club took two first places. The West Philadelphians took first honors in the regatta. Many Alexandrians saw the race and all report the fastest and best rowing that they have seen in years.

Miss Cummings and Mrs. Lockwood visited Mr. and Mrs. Seddons Taliaferro, at their home at Rock Springs, Wyoming, they also spent a night at the Taliaferro's cattle ranch. On the homeward trip they stopped at many of the largest cities where a cordial reception was given them by the most prominent men of the community.

Railway Clerks Meet

85 Delegates Attend Quarterly Meeting of Southern Clerks Sunday.

The meeting of the Northern district of the Southern Railway clerks of Virginia and North Carolina was held here Sunday on the fourth floor of the Alexandria National Building. Eighty-five delegates from Virginia and North Carolina were in attendance. H. C. Lindaver, district chairman of North Carolina, presided. Considerable business of importance to the clerks was acted on. Afterward the delegates were guests of Belle Haven Council of this city at a dinner at the Hotel Rammel. J. Angus King is chairman of the local district which was represented by eighteen delegates. The next meeting will be held Labor Day in Portsmouth, Va. After dinner most of the delegates departed for their homes. There were delegates in attendance from Alexandria, Richmond, Portsmouth, Charlottesville, Monroe, Va., and Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Spencer, Salisbury and Durham, N. C.

Roman candles it is thought were responsible for a slight fire on the roof of the residence of John Henderson, 122 South Peyton street at 9 o'clock last night. The fire was extinguished before the arrival of the fire department.

The Friends' Playground

Will Open Tomorrow—Miss Evelyn Howard in Charge

Tomorrow, Wednesday, July 6th, the summer opening of the Playground Association will take place. The hours will be every day from 9 to 12:30 and from 3:30 to 7:15. The public has been so well acquainted with the generous gift of the Friends who own this valuable property on Queen street, between Washington and Columbus, that further comment is unnecessary.

Miss Evelyn Howard was the teacher in charge of the work last summer and had conducted the activities with great satisfaction. Mr. William J. Morton, chairman of the committee of securing teachers wrote to Mrs. Susie Roots Rhodes, superintendent of the 23 Municipal Playgrounds of Washington, D. C., and asked for the best equipped teacher she had on her large staff—without hesitation, Mrs. Rhodes pronounced Miss Evelyn Howard of this city, as the one best qualified to handle the work, though in giving her to Alexandria, Mrs. Rhodes felt she was losing a most important teacher. It was therefore with keen pleasure the committee again tendered the position to Miss Howard and are most grateful to her for accepting the work.

It is a source of rejoicing that this project which has been conducted so steadily for the past five years has, by proving its value to the community, at last been given grounds of its own, and also has the indorsement of many of the most progressive people interested in the child welfare of the city.

Charged With Burglary

Stephen Smith, Colored, Held For Grand Jury

Stephen Smith, colored, a non-resident, was arraigned in the police court Saturday morning on a charge of the larceny of a suit of clothes from the residence of F. T. Quinn, 708 King street, and held for the action of the grand jury. In default of a bail bond in the sum of $2,000 he was committed to jail.

Smith, it is alleged, entered Mr. Quinn's residence about 2 o'clock Saturday morning and the presence of the intruder aroused Mr. Quinn and the latter fired at the burglar as he fled from the room with pair of trousers. The shot, however, failed to take effect. An hour afterward a man, giving the name of Smith, was apprehended near the union railway station by Sergt. Campbell and Policemen Bell and Thompson. The suit of clothes was recovered from this man. Entrance to the place was effected through a rear window.

WIFE CAUSES ARREST OF AMALGAMATED CLUB MAN

National Park, N. J., July 5.—Charles Cavanaugh, president of the organization formed by the clubs here, and who is taking an active part in the fight to have the ordinance of Council set aside so that Mayor Waters can appoint police officers instead of the members of Council, did not take part in the Fourth of July celebration.

It was all because his wife, Anna, came down from Philadelphia and had him arrested on the charge of non support and desertion. The warrant was served through Councilman Harry Ulrich, head of the new police department, which Cavanaugh is trying to have ousted, so this made it all the more embarassing for Cavanaugh. Cavanaugh was willing to go to Philadelphia, but it being a holiday he was required to go to jail where he will remain until tomorrow. Cvanaugh was formerly a policeman in Philadelphia.

Colonel Sullivan telegraphed the figures to William M. Abbott, of San Francisco, grand exalted ruler.

Impressive Exercises Mark Ceremony At That Church

THIRTY-NINE STARS

Contains Three Gold Stars Representing Men of That Parish Who Made the Supreme Sacrifice

Impressive services marked the taking down of the service flag at St Paul's Episcopal Church Sunday morning. The flag contains a total of thirty-nine stars, among them being three gold ones representing the men from that parish who made the supreme sacrifice during the world war. The flag was lowered by Urban S. Lambert and turned over to Capt. George Evans and last night placed it in the hands of the rector, Rev. Percy Foster Hall. Afterward there was an address by Dr. George T. Klipstein.

During the progress of the service the hymns sung were as follows: "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," "Eternal Father Strong to Save," and "My Country Tis of Thee," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

The men represented on the flag by gold stars are Lieut. Richard H. Fawcett, reserve military aviator and instructor, who died while instructing.

Lieut. Chaplain Eppes Evans, U. S. N.

John N. Luckett.

Other names on the list for whom stars were given follows:

Non-commissioned officers and privates Kenneth Aitcheson, U. S. A.; Fred Baker, U. S. A.; Thomas Ballenger, U. S. A.; Tupper Barrett, U. S. A.; C. Waller Barrett, U. S. A.; Edgar Clark, U. S. A.; Louis N. Dixon, U. S. A.; Emmett R. Dunn, Edward Fawcett, U. S. N.; Frank Lambdin, U. S. A.; Laurence Fawcett, U. S. A.; Beuregard Foley, U. S. A.; Richard M. Green, Jr., U. S. N.; John Johnson, U. S. A.; Everett Kelly, U. S. N.; Douglas Lindsey, U. S. A.; Carroll Lucas, U. S. A.; Frank Petty, U. S. A.; Harry Schwab, U. S. A.; Raymond A. Sutton, U. S. A.; W. L. Watkins, U. S. A.; Thomas L. Watkins, U. S. A.; Thomas L. Wattles, U. S. A.

Dr. Klipstein said in part:

This flag with stars representing the soldierly consecration to duty of some still living and of some who made the supreme sacrifice in the great world wide struggle against sin and crime with which event we are all so familiar. To those whose home circles have been broken and whose hero sons have been marked upon this flag by stars of gold signifying that they have made the supreme sacrifice that the world and humanity might be saved from ruthless barbarism and oppression, it must be a great comfort to know that the Great Master himself said to his disciples "Greater love hath no man than this—that he lay down his life for his friend." It requires the highest ideals of manhood; the most exalted sense of duty; total self abnegation; the very spirit of the Blessed Master himself to enable one to lay downhis life for a principle or for another. We know that they cannot have died in vain; that there will come a time in the Providence of God, that these things which, to us now are incomprehensible, will then be made plain. We are not as these without hope. We have the assurance of the Great Father that His love for each one of us in greater then that of the most loving earthly parent. That what ever affliction we bear in His name is ultimely for our good.

This is not the time nor is it the occasion to enter into detail as to the events or otherwise the cause of the great world war, and we have no assurance that the men who are represented by the stars on this flag ever stopped to analyze the cause. It was sufficient for them to know that the cause of humanity needed men with red blood coursing through their veins, and with fixed principles of character and loyalty to duty, they obeyed their country's call.

To you whom we honor with the stars of blue I would beg of you to remember that your fighting days are not over but just fairly begun. When the Commander of the Salvation Army was asked the secret of their marvelous efficiency during the war, the answer was that they were used to war. They were already trained to battle in their eternal conflict against sin and wrong. You have returned to a different world—one as much changed as you are changed yourselves. The old regime has passed away. There is no peace save the "Peace of God which passeth all understanding." There are foes to fight—there are wrongs to right on every side. I beg of you to carry into your every day life, social, political, financial, the same splendid courage and heroism you displayed in answering your country's call. During those trying times in the war, what a comfort and blessing it must have been to you to know your homes were in America and protected by your country's flag which we so proudly hang in our chancel. That your home and loved ones were spared the devastation and suffering of bleeding Belgium, France, Armenia and their neighboring nations. The flag, the stars and stripes, still appeals to each of you to hold it high among the nations. The life and principles of its individual citizens exhaubeth or debaseth a nation. Therefore your work is not done, it is only just begun. Put on the whole armor of God and fight the good fight.

To us who are assembled here this morning to witness the lowering of this flag, what does this memorial mean? Can we forget that wher these noble boys left us for distant lands to offer themselves upon the alter of sacrifice for the protection of civilization; that the world was groaning under universal disaster such as was never dreamed of before from the beginning of time? Again let us remember that, not until the Christian world ascended as never before, to the throne of the Almighty in prayers of intercession were the triumphs of carnage and destruction stayed. Then lest we forget let us, in memory visit the bloody fields of Flanders and there surrounded by her countless dead, the voiceless army who still speaks to us in spirit, let us put on whole armor of God and pledge ourselves anew as soldiers of the cross to fight manfully under His banner against sin, the world and the devil.

CANADIAN PONZIS MADE MONEY ON SOLDIER FRAUD

Ottawa, July 5.—Testimony was given today before a commission investigation soldier frauds in foreign exchange, in which it was charged the Canadian Government lost several hundred thousand dollars, that a former Ottawa policeman made $14,500 in this manner and then left the country.

The government agreed, when English money dropped heavily, to pay its returning soldiers the difference between the allowance they received abroad in English money and what these allowances would mean in Canadian money at the normal rate of exchange. It was charged that many soldiers presented fraudulent papers as to allowances for payment abroad.

WOMAN BANDIT'S VICTIM GETS KICK SECOND TIME

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 5.—Three bandits with a woman in command, held up Peter Verdi twice last night, according to a report he made to the police today.

The woman, Verdi said, wore a khaki uniform and pointed a revolver at him, ordering him to throw up his hands. Verdi complied and the two other bandits robbed him of $1.50, a ring, and a pin. Verdi was then told to "beat it." He sought short cut home but he was intercepted by the woman.

"It's the same bird," said one of the bandits as he gave Verdi a kick after the latter had again appeared to the woman's command, handing over the articles taken from him.

Independence Day One of Holliest In New York In Recent Years—Twelve Dead In Chicago.

New York, July 5.—Seven men were drowned yesterday at beaches in the vicinity of New York as hundreds of sweltering thousands fled from the intense heat that has enveloped the city since Saturday. An unknown man, believed demented by the excessive temperature committed suicide by jumping into the reservoir in Central Park.

One death from prostration was reported in the city, while numerous persons, overcome during the day's festivities, were revived at hospitals. Several minor accidents resulted from the premature explosion of fire works.

The crowds that sought relief at the beaches yesterday and today were the greatest in the history of any of the nearby resorts. At Coney Island and other popular hot weather rendezvous thousands slept on the sand last night and a throng fully as great was following their example last night. Police details were instructed to see that the sleepers were protected from molestation.

Although five degrees cooler than July 4, 1919, today was still among the hottest Independence Days in New York in recent years. A maximum temperature of 93 degrees was reached in the afternoon, which, according to Weather Bureau reports, is 10 degrees above the average for this time of the year.

Chicago, July 5.—Death took heavy toll in the three day celebration of July Fourth in and around Chicago. Returns up to midnight show 12 persons dead and more than a score injured. Of this number two were accidentally shot to death, a 3 year old boy fell from a third story window and was killed, five persons were drowned and four perished in automobile accidents.

Pittsburgh, July 5.—Three persons were drowned here yesterday in seeking relief in nearby rivers from the heat. The victims were Tony Lima, 14 years old; George Graeff, 19 years old, Bellevue, and William G. Meizier, 23, this city.

More than 500 persons watched Albert Z. McCaffrey, a life guard at the City Camp on the Allegheny river, near Hulton, rescue a boy who had become imbedded in the mud, face downward, while swimming. The boy was revived.

Milwaukee, July 5.—Nine persons are dead in this vicinity as a result of Fourth of July celebrations, two of them being overcome by heat. Six were drowned, while another was killed in an automobile accident.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Three drownings, several heat prostrations and the highest temperature of the year marked Independence Day here. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the thermometer registered 96.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

And he gave it for his opinion, that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together.

Dean Swift.

A Century Ago.

We print elsewhere in today's paper excerpts from a Fourth of July oration, delivered on July 3, 1813, the fourth being Sunday, by William H. Fitzhugh, in Alexandria. It was published in the Gazette's edition of the sixth, and the editor felicitates the paper on its enterprise in making so speedy a publication.

The oration, itself, is a model of the severe classical style of those days. It contains two rather lengthy Latin quotations, with one of which it concludes. The other we print, and wonder if any of our high school graduates of this year could translate it? It abounds in classical allusions, some of which we give, and is replete with metaphor. The sentences are long and involved, but exemplify the Eighteenth century English. Many of the figures are beautiful, and the thought poetic and full of the loftiest patritism.

Chicago has had constructed, or perhaps we should say, edited, a reader for the public schools, which tells of her greatness in the past and present, and prophesies her eminence in the future. Why should not Alexandria, possesssing a real history, compared with which Chicago's sinks into insignificance, also prepare a reader for its school-children, recounting the great deeds of its founders and citizens, and reciting, ipsissima verba, the great thoughts written, and words spoken, by the mighty minds who were wont to gather within its hallowed precincts? There would be this difference: that, while the Chicago school-reader would be of little use to the children of Alexandria, yet the latter's text-book would be of untold value not only to Chicago, but to every town and city in the land.

Think of an epic of pork-packeries; of an Iliad of Hinky-Dink and Bath-house John! The imagination grows faint and refuses to dwell on the subject further.

The oration of Mr. Fitzhugh is instructive as well as interesting. We glimpse the state of mind of the opposition to the administration. Madison was in the White House, or what served for it in those days. The War of 1812 was still reddening the soil with British and American blood. Napoleon was drifting helplessly on the tide towards Elba. Europe was in a ferment, and the world seemed topsy-turvy.

The Gazette in those days was anti-administration, decidedly, of a pacifist tendency. It played its part right manfully, and stood for its principles and its friends with unabated vigor. A perusal of its pages is not only of unexampled interest, but is an illumining index to the spirit of the times. The editorials, the letters, the speeches, the commentaries of the day, were often of a most pessimistic nature. But they served as correctives and checks upon the party in power and show the ever-present necessity in a Republic of an opposition press and party.

It was the fashion of the ancient editors of the Gazette to quote freely from the Latin classics. May we be pardoned, then, for following their illustrious example, apropos of pessimism and a dark outlook on the future? May we say today, with Bernardus Cluniensis: "Hora novissima, tempora pessima sunt, vigilemus." This last word embodied the policy of the Alexandria Gazette a hundred years ago. It likewise embraces and comprehends its policy in his, the year 1921.

TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1813.

Accounts were received at Washington yesterday morning, by the express mail from Buffaloe, of the Capture of Col. Boersteller and his regiment of upwards of 500 men by the British, about 14 miles from St. George.

We are gratified in being enabled to present Mr. Fitzhugh's Oration to our readers, at an earlier day than was expected. It will be found in this day's paper. (Extracts printed elsewhere in today's Gazette.—Editor.)

A series of letters addressed to the President of the United States, is commenced in the Gazette of this morning. Our readers will recognize in them the pen which has been recently and ably employed in tracing the causes and consequences of the war in which we are engaged, and in delineating the plans by which its progress might be arrested. When such men speak, let the people listen.

LETTER TO
JAMES MADISON
President of the U. States.

The dangers and calamities of YOUR WAR are awakening the most dangerous solicitudes, not in those only who did their utmost to avert it, but in some, who ignorant of our own resources, as well as of their enemies, have been misled in their former opinions. Your convalescence, sir, is a cause of congratulation among many who have opposed your course of administration, not because they feared the vacancy in your office would be filled by the Vice-president Gerry with less advantage, or less honor, or less wisdom, but because they wished you to have an opportunity to repair the many and great faults which you have committed in the conduct of the nation.

A hope, a faint hope is entertained that the recent affliction was designed by an all-wise Providence, as a mercy to the people over whom you preside, by inducing you to review the train of measures by which your country was been led into this unnecessary and ruinous war. A faint hope is entertained that you will yet, before it is too late, see your errors, and repent, even at the eleventh hour, repent, and suspend the contest, as unchristian in its commencement, as it has been disastrous in its consequences, in an immediate armistice.

COOPER FEELS AS HAPPY AS A BOY

Newport News Man, For First Time in 14 Years, Can Eat Without Bad After Effects.

"I feel as happy as a boy at the way my health is being restored," said W. C. Cooper, a well-known joiner living at 2603 Wickham avenue, Newport News, Va.

"I can't remember the time for fourteen years when I could eat a hearty meal without suffering afterwards, or had a good night's sleep or a day free from misery. My food soured on my stomach and I was constipated and suoject to blinding headaches. I had frequent bilious attacks, when I was almost deathly sick at my stomach and couldn't retain anything I had eaten.

"These spells left me completely prostrated, and then I would be so dizzy I could hardly stand up. At one time I fell from a high step-ladder and didn't know a thing for three days. I lost weight until my clothes looked like they might have been made for a man twice my size. Nothing did me any good and it looked like I was going to be in bad health the balance of my days.

"Well, sir, my wife is the cause of my present good health, for she seemed determined not to quit until she found somethig to give me relief, and she finally got hold of Tanlac. I am now on my fifth, and my apetite and digestion are fine. I slepe like a healthy boy, never suffer from constipatio, headaches or dizziness, and have been wonderfully built up in every way."

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield, Jr.

To Coal Consumers:—

It is not possible to mine, transport and deliver enough coal during the few Fall and Winter months to supply the demand of that period, so it is always necessary for the trade to take in a reasonable amount of coal during the Spring and Summer months in order to avoid a shortage and high prices.

There is being so small a tonnage stored this Summer that it now looks very much as though there might be a pronounced shortage and higher prices when the weather begins to get cold.

As we see very little likelihood of any decrease in the price of high grade domestic coal between this time and cold weather, we are taking this method of urging our customers to take in a reasonable amount of fuel now.

FROM THE FOURTH OF JULY ORATION

Delivered on Saturday, the 3rd July, 1813, at the Presbyterian Church, Alexandria, Va.

By

William H. Fitzhugh, Esq.

"Once more, fellow-citizens, we are assembled to commemorate the era of our independence, and to offer up our accustomed tribute of grateful respect to the memory of its authors. Were it possible that any other inducements than such as flow from patriotism and the native principles of the human heart, could be requisite to prompt us to this gratuitous display of national feeling, they might be readily found in the usages of the world.

If you, my audience, the subject of the day presents itself under a peculiar and, if possible, a doubly interesting aspect.....It was you who gave to your country its guardian angel, and to the world a perfect Hero. Washington was your friend and neighbor—and while the nation at large shared the benefits of his public exertions, you were the special objects of his private munificence—the chosen children of his affection. The morning of his life was devoted to his country, but the milder radiance of his setting sun beamed almost exclusively on you.

.....How often have the eyes of a large proportion of this very audience been turned with admiration towards the venerable hero, as he sunk in pious devotion at the altar of his God!

.....The authors of the American Revolution will be compared not with those wild and romantic adventurers who here and there appear like comets to terrify, or like plagues to desolate, the fairest portions of the world; but with the heroes of old, whose names, like ancient land marks, still remain to point with unerring exactness to the limits of their country's prosperity. With Miltiades nobly and successfully contending against a host of Persian invaders; with Leonidas and his Spartan band voluntary victims to their country's safety—with Pelopidas and Epaminondas, brothers in renown, brave, virtuous, and disinterested—with the Roman Scipio, turning the tide of Carthagenian success, and befriending his country in the hour of its greatest need; and with Cincinnatus joyfully divesting himself of the robes of power, and returning without a sigh to earlier days. With these, the names of Warren, Montgomery, Mercer, Gates and Green, will enter into honorable competition. While Washington, elevated in death as he was in life, above all comparison, must still command the undivided admiration of the world.

.....But alas! the days of our benefactor are gone. Scarcely had his generous spirit fled to its eternal mansion, ere his precepts, his example, nay, his very services, were forgotten. The torrent of corruption, accumulated during his life, rushed with impetuosity through the chasm occasioned by his death, and descended on the surrounding plain, not like the counteous Nile, to ameliorate its soil, but like the waters of an impure fountain, to sweep from its surface every vestige of culture and improvement.

"Macies et nova febrium
Terris incubuit cohors; semotique prius tarda necessitas,
Lethi corripuit gradum."

Tedious and mournful would be the task, to recount the sad vicissitudes my country has witnessed since her deviation from the principles of Washington.....Would to God! we could feel ourselves justified in subscribing to that philosophy, which, encincling our own rulers with imaginary perfection, attributes all our calamities to the injustice of foreign nations.

.....We behold—to borrow the sentiments, if not the language of one of the ablest political writers of the last century—the nation overwhelmed with debt; her resources neglected: her revenues wasted; her trade declining; the affections of a large proportion of the people alienated by oppression from the government; the duties of the magistracy transferred to the soldiers and the mobs; armies marched in rapid succession to the same common grave; and a small but gallant navy compelled to fight its way, not only through the fleets of its open enemy, but through still more formidable neglect and ingratitude of its pretended friends.

.....There is, too, a God of Justice, who presides over destinies of mankind. Already he has trembled the MIGHTY COLOSSUS OF INIQUITY.—Already he has kindled a flame in the north to reanimate the expiring hopes of European liberty. America will be benefited by its light.

SPORTS

The Dreadnaughts added three more victories to their list in as many days by defeating the Speedway A. C., Saturday by the score of 8 to 1, the Quantico Marines Sunday 5 to 4 and Clarendon yesterday 3 to 0 in the first game of the series for the championship of Northern Virginia. Three good ball games was the verdict of the fans, this being especially true of the Saturday and Sunday's games. Frye pitched a beautiful game of ball Sunday, but the Marines forced him to the limit and it was not until the eighth inning that the D's took the lead, thanks to Ludlow's clout to left with the bases full which scored all three men. Alexander was right yesterday and held Clarendon to three hits. This was a fast clean game, being played in one hour and fifty minutes. The veteran, Slim Giles, made the feature play of the evening when he raced all the way to take a triple from Moran, the visitors shortstop. The second game of this series will be played in Clarendon the last Sunday of this month, July 31.

DODSON KILLING USE OF CALOMEL

Says Drug is Mercury and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver

Dodson is making a hard fight against calomel in the South. Every druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason, Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor an dambition.

College Boys in Hussars

"The day of the old rough-neck handsman is past" is the theory on which Dunbar's White Hussars is organized. When they present their feature full evening's program at the coming Chautauqua our citizens will be entertained by a company consisting mostly of college men, all of them under thirty, a clean, manly group of young fellows, who will make a striking appearance in their spick and span white uniforms.

Representatives of Indiana University, Ohio State, Ann Arbor and Columbia are included in the company. Intelligent fellows who take their musical work seriously, they are in the work because they love it; playing is to them a joy, not a task. Their enthusiasm is contagious; the audience feels the good time it is going to have as the company steps on to the platform.

Chorus, songs and ensemble musical numbers which rival the results of groups many times as large are features of every program.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT WRIGLEY'S DOUBLEMINT WRIGLEY'S JUICY FRUIT

THE FLAVOR LASTS

Address of R. Walton Moore

In The Fairfax Court House, May 30th, 1921, Accepting For Fairfax County The Portrait of George Johnston.

The County of Fairfax, honoring George Johnston, one of her foremost sons, welcomes the opportunity of placing his prtrait on the walls of this Court room, in company with the portraits of Washington and Mason, to whom he was bound by many strong ties.

Such records of the County as are still preserved afford evidence of his prominence and activity.

As a lawyer he was in the front rank of the bar of this section. His name constantly occurs in the minute books of the County Court which detail its proceedings, while the County seat was maintained at what is now called the Old Court House Hill, and, afterwards, following its removal from there to Alexandria, near the middle of the 18th century. The town of Alexandria, and what is now Arlington County, were, of course, until the end of the century a part of Fairfax. As Johnston was born in 1700, it is interesting to note the evolution of the counties as he himself witnessed it. Prince William was detached from Stafford in 1730. Fairfax was detached from Prince William in 1742, and Loudoun was not detached from Fairfax until 1757.

In the deed books are conveyances of land with which he was connected. The will books contain his last will and testament, written in 1766 within a few months of his death, which is brief and simple compared with the prolix documents customary in those days. The will books also contain the inventory of his estate from which it seems that he was a man of considerable wealth.He owned a residence in Alexandria.

Across Hunting Creek from the Town, and lying along the Potomac River, was his very extensive farm, well stocked with cattle and horses, equipped with all the agricultural implements then in use, and culitvated by his numerous slaves.

The inventory indicates that he was studious and widely read. The catalogue of his library includes an excellent collection of law books that had been then published. It includes also a large number of other books, among them the works of Addison, Steele, Goldsmith, Swift and Pope, who were his cotemporaries, and who, as all know, contributed to making theirs one of the golden periods of the literature of our language.

While capable of engaging in the largest affairs Johnston was concerned about everything that affected the general welfare. He was an ardent and untiring public servant, exerting himself to advance the interests of the colony and his own community. For several years, he represented the County in the House of Burgesses. At home, he found time from the labors of his profession to look after local matters. For instance, he assisted in organizing new parishes; settling their boundaries, and advising the vestries that had charge of such business.

Johnston's participation in one of the most memorable events of our political history was so outstanding as to insure him against the possibility of ever being forgotten. It was the event that occurred at Williamsburg on the 30th of May, 1765, exactly 156 years ago today. Williamsburg was the seat of the Colonial Government. From the Capitol waved the flag of Great Britain. On every hand were the insignia of royalty. Devotion to the Crown was almost universal. The House of Burgesses, which had been in session several weeks, was made up of the most eminent characters of the Colony. America could not then have produced a more distinguished or brilliant assemblage. Those who were supposed to guide and dominate the House were the unswerving adherents of the Crown. The Speaker was John Robinson, an ultra-conservative, and among the members who supported him were Peyton Randolph, Richard Bland, Edmund Pendleton, George Wythe and Richard Henry Lee. To these names many others not less notable might be added. One of the older members was George Johnston, representing Fairfax, and one of the younger members was George Washington, representing Frederick.

The English Parliament had just passed a statute placing a tax on all legal instruments executed in America, ranging from three pence to ten pounds—the famous Stamp Tax. This had aroused some indignant comment, but many, possibly a large majority of the Colonial leaders were inclined to submit. For example, Benjamin Franklin, then in London, where, as agent of some of the colonies, he had endeavored to prevent there would be acquiescence. Writing to a friend he said that he could no more have hindered the passage of the Act than he could have hindered the sun from setting. "That," he said, "we could not do. But since the sun is down, my friends and it may be long before it rises again, let us make as good a night of it as we can. We can still light the candles." Many members of the House of Burgeses were in the same attitude, and not a few of them were aggressively loyal in supporting the authority of Parliament. But there were some who were willing to risk their all rather than submit, and, after a while, three days before the close of the session, they found a leader.

It seems almost providential that the member representing Louisa when the House met, resigned during the session, and thus made way for the election of Patrick Henry, who was chosen to fill the vacancy. Henry was then 29 years old, and only known as the lawyer who by his ability and eloquence had won the Parson's case. He did not belong to the wealthy or aristocratic group and was new to the field upon which he entered at Williamsburg. Nevertheless, he determined upon a course of resistance to the enforcement of the Stamp Tax. He planned to offer resolutions of protest and condemnation, and these he wrote upon the fly leaf of an old law book. The fifth and concluding resolution was as follows: "Resolved, therefore, that the General Assembly of this Colony have the sole right and power to levy taxes and impositions upon the inhabitants of this Colony; and that every attempt to vest such power in any person or persons whatsoever, other than the General Assembly aforesaid, is a manifest tendency to destroy British as well as American freedom."

In advance of their introduction the resolutions were shown by their author to but two members, one of whom was Johnston. It is easy to believe that the inexperineced member who was about to challenge the power of the British Government, consulted with Mr. Johnston because of his desire to have the co-operation of a statesman and lawyer of wide experience and mature judgment. Nor is it difficult to believe that, knowing of Johnston's intimacy with George Mason, Henry assumed that his views were similar to those entertained by the political philosopher of Gunston Hall. Certain it is that the resolutions received Johnston's unhesitating approval and that at the critical moment he was relied upon for the support that Henry regarded as essential.

Protection

Protection is what every property owner expects to get when he Buys INSURANCE.

Whether it be insurance on his house, his household or personal effects, his automobile or his life—PROTECTION is always his aim.

And, when placed with reliable companies insurance is the very best investment on the market. Nobody knows when fire or tornado is going to visit his home—when thieves are going to make away with his automobile—when he is going to accidentally run down a pedestrian and be called upon to pay damages or when a spark will send the costly machine up in smoke.

It pays to think these things over before any of them actually happen. Then call and see us.

BOY WAR REFUGEE ENTERS U. S. ON 4th

Chicago, July 5.—Frank (Jately Franz) Fetzer, aged 12, has realized his ambition. He has been admitted to the United States, which to him represents the ultimate of all desires.
After traveling all the way from Czecho-Slovakia, he was held up at the immigration office until someone was found who would give assurance the boy would not become a public charge. Frank Fabigan, of Chicago, gave that assurance, and the boy stepped into the land of the free on July 4.
Although but 12 years old, the boy has lived ages of horror and suffering. In the little town of Atrau-bitz his father was a small merchant. With the outbreak of hostilities he marched away with his regiment. A French bullet killed him. Then Atrau-bitz was invaded and the boy and his mother fled to Vienna. Hunger, grief and privation were too much for the mother and she died. The lad managed to exist on scraps he found in the streets, bits of food occasionally handed him by sympathetic people, and his clothing was such as he could salvage from the charnel houses, reinforced by wisps of hay and held together by strings.
He got to the seashore and managed to stow himself away in an ocean liner. The officers of the boat brought him to Quebec. From there he worked his way to Detroit, where immigration officers stopped him until Mr. Fabigan came to the rescue.

FIRE KILLS FIVE STANDARD OIL MEN

Among the dead: Fire Marshal Johnson of the Standard Oil Company's force; Assitant Fire Marshal Joe Talyo; George Dvorsak laborer.
The other dead were so badly burned that identification is impossible except by eliimnation. Seven persons are missing.
The fire started just as the night force was going out and the day force coming on. There was a terrific explosion. The fire spread raoidly and all the company's fire fighters were called. It was not until noon that the fire was extinguished.

Its clean, white-tipped flame gives the correct heat instantly

THIS is the reason why cooking with a New Perfection is so easy and successful. You can regulate the heat accurately to within a few degrees every time you bake a particular kind of pastry or cook a roast.

Instead of the old way of "rushing the fire" and more often than not burning your cakes, a little experience with a New Perfection will show you how easy it is to get successful results uniformly. You can adjust the heat in a second where it takes several minutes with the draft and damper method of a coal range.

Over 3,000,000 housekeepers who use the New Perfection enjoy the relief that it affords from coal and wood carrying and all the litter and bother that go with them. Their kitchens are more comfortable to work in, too, especially during warm weather.

Another feature of the New Perfection is its long blue chimney. This drives clean, sootless heat against the cooking utensils with an extremely small loss by radiation. You can always see the flame through the little mica door.

The four-burner size equipped with warming cabinet and New Perfection Oven is the most popular. But you can obtain a five, three, two or one-burner size if you prefer.

Aladdin Security Oil gives the best results uniformly. Use it all the time.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most hardware, furniture and department stores.

A healthy body is the strongest factor for a healthy mind ---and thus is it important that we nourish our bodies.

The chief item of daily diet is BREAD. Hence it should it be the VERY BEST BREAD---best in quality of the ingredients; best in character of the making. Either one without the other leaves an essential lacking which drops the standard below par.

CORBY BREAD

qualifies as the VERY BEST BREAD---because science guides the making. Every ingredient used is selected by scientific standard---determining purity and insuring nutritive quality. The doughs in CORBY BREAD are mixed scientifically by means of the patented mixers, specially designed to develop ALL the gluten content of the flour---and without which it is impossible. And then, as if to make doubly sure---unusual quantities of rich milk are added.

Truly CORBY BREAD is

100 Percent Pure, and 100 Percent Nutritious

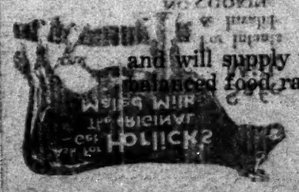
and will supply the elements required—in the proportion necessary for a perfectly balanced food ration.



CORBY BREAD is made right here in Alexandria—and delivered fresh from the ovens to your grocer and delicatessen.
